BATTLE TIDE IS AGAINST FEDERALS

Fights Rages Fiercely at Ojinaga With All in Favor of Attacking Rebels

CONFICTING REPORTS AS TO CASUALTIES OF WAR

Neuvo Laredo Battle Seems to Be With Rebels—Federals Likely to Evacuate

EL PASO, Jan. 2.—With the telegraph wire between Presidio and Marfa down for twenty hours, there was no information here this morning of the battle at Ojinaga, where Mexican rebels for three days have been besieging the federals. Correspondents, American army officers, rebel leaders and General Villa are making every effort to re-establish communication. When the last word came six thousand rebels were hammering away at the defenses which were manned by four thousand federals.

The battle is reported to be the bloodiest of the Mexican war campaign thus far fought. The killed on both sides is estimated at above one thousand, while the wounded will number twice as many.

REFUGEES NOT ADVENTURERS WILL BE CARED FOR BY U. S.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Secretary of War, Garrison approved today the action of the American troops on the Texas border in disarming Mexican federal refugees, and sending them back to Mexico. The Mexican consulate at El Paso has protested. The administration holds that this rule applies to persons who come to the border armed, and that they are adventurers not refugees. Secretary Garrison said:

"When the fighting began an order was issued to admit all unarmed refugees. The order has not been changed. Those coming unarmed will not be sent back to certain death. We will keep them until they can return safely, but armed men cannot cross the border."

General Wood, chief of staff, has notified the American Red Cross on the border to co-operate in caring for the wounded and in distributing supplies.

NEWS OF BATTLE FRONT

SAYS REPORTS EXAGGERATED

PRESIDIO, Texas, Jan. 2.—Fighting continued at Ojinaga today, and the crack of rifles incessantly mingled with the crash of artillery. Army officers here say it is believed the refugees reaching here have greatly exaggerated the number of killed. It is believed 118 of the garrison and 50 rebels have fallen, while others were wounded. The rebels were strengthened by 800 arrivals from Coahuila. The army surgeons are treating the wounded at a mission church on the American side of the border.

It was learned that $70,000 sent from here yesterday to pay the federal troops at Ojinaga was captured, and that the thieves are still at large. Further desertions from the federal garrison occurred today.

BATTLE RAGES AT NEUVO LAREDO—REBELS ATTACKING

LAREDO, Texas, Jan. 2.—The federals at Neuvo Laredo are still holding out against the attacking rebels, but it seemed certain today that they must evacuate. A fiercer attack was launched at daybreak than before. Refugees here declare that between 400 and 500 men were killed.

POSTOFFICE IS NOW READY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The national capital's new postoffice building was formally declared completed today and preparations made for moving the city staff from the building of the postoffice department, to the new structure. It is located next to the big Union Station and forms one of a group of buildings in the scheme for the beautification of Washington, being a big granite structure fronting on Union Station Plaza.

The Washington postoffice has heretofore occupied all of the first floor of the federal postoffice department building, and the removal will grant the department much needed room.

Will convey yourself and grip to any part of the city, 25 cents. Call 195, Gordon Grocery.

MITCHELL IS NOW NEW YORK'S MAYOR

Headache Broke Up Inaugural Reception for New Head of 5,000,000 People

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—John Purroy Mitchel took office as mayor yesterday with such a New Year's headache that it broke up his public inaugural reception. However, it was not as bad as it sounds, for the young, boylsh-looking mayor for a city of 5,000,000 people was not suffering from New Year's Eve enthusiasm. He is a sufferer from headaches at frequent intervals, and fate willed it that the jinx should get him yesterday of all days.

At the public reception, Mrs. William J. Gaynor, widow of the former mayor, was among the first to congratulate Mayor Mitchel. After certain other distinguished persons had shaken his hand, the doors of the mayor's office were thrown open and a line of 4000 or more began to file in.

Mitchel was pale, and it soon developed that the ordeal was more than he could stand. After about 500 people had passed, the mayor went into his office. Several thousand persons waited a long time for him to resume his reception, and he did greet about 200 later, but the others were disappointed. Many left cards.

Despite his indisposition, Mitchel courageously went through the ceremony of taking over the administration of the city government from the hands of Mayor Adolph L. Kuus.

President Wilson Will Give Envoy an Audience This Afternoon

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss., Jan. 2.—The scout cruiser Chester with John Lind, President Wilson's personal envoy, sent to Mexico a few months ago in an effort to bring about peace, is anchored today off Ship Island alongside the revenue cutter Winona. The Winona had been detailed to bring Envoy Lind to the port opposite President Wilson's cottage. The President was up early for a walk. That he is displeased that the news that he summoned Lind here has leaked out, is reported.

At 10:30 o'clock Lind had not appeared. It is reported that he may not see the President until late this afternoon. The President showed signs of interest in the Morgan resignation from directorates, but refused to make any comment.

70-MILE AN HOUR FARISS DEFENSE ARGUMENTS ON TODAY

Judge Craig Will Allow Change of Plea if Insanity Can Be Proven

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2.—Judge Craig today began the hearing of arguments of attorneys for Ralph Fariss, the young Southern Pacific train robber, to permit the youth to withdraw his plea of "guilty" of the murder of Horace Montague, and announced that after the evidence was all in he would take time to consider whether the crime was in the first or second degree. He refused to act now upon the request for a change of plea, but indicated that he may permit it if the evidence shows the insanity of Fariss.

The father of the young bandit, James Fariss, testified as to his "peculiar spells," and a neighbor at Bakersfield testified that the boy robbed her house when he was but four years old. Dr. Pepper, an alienist, testified that Fariss is subject to recurrent violent spells every forty-six weeks.

MORGAN AND CO. RESIGN AS DIRECTORS

Big Financial Power Quits the Boards of Many Big Railroads in United States

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Members of the firm of Morgan and Company have resigned from the directorates of twenty railroad and industrial companies, it was announced today. It is explained that the resignations were made because of the time taken from the firm's business attending directors' meetings.

Morgan said: "There has been a marked change regarding directorships that seems to warrant our withdrawal from many companies."

He asserted that he had reluctantly accepted the directorships in the first place, and resigned from the directorates of the New York Central, the Lake Shore, the West Shore, Michigan Central, Big Four, Nickel Plate, New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad companies, as well as several smaller lines; also the Western Union. It is said that Morgan will continue as director in the United States Steel Corporation.

HAVE CAUGHT "SPIRIT OF THE TIMES," SAYS TODD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Respect for the administration's anti-trust program and willingness to respond to public sentiment, were the reasons advanced by George Todd, the department of justice trust-buster, for the resignation of the Morgan firm members from the various directorates. He said, "I think big business has caught the spirit of the times. I cannot say that conferences with government officials preceded the resignations, but I believe the administration's attitude is responsible."

WAR ON POTASH MINING CLAIMS GOES INTO COURTS

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 2.—Sheriff J. C. Ralphs and other officers returned yesterday from the Seal Lake region, and all is quiet between the rival factions in the mining claims.

The warfare between the American Trona Company and its allied interests is turned over to the courts. The independent syndicate, represented by Attorney T. O. Toland of Los Angeles, will push its suit against the Trona companies, it is declared. The action demands $50,000 damages and a decree quieting title to 34,000 acres of potash claims, worth, it is declared, $1,000,000.

MAINE MAN GIVES HALF OF ESTATE TO CHARITY IN YEAR

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 2.—Twelve colleges, hospitals and charitable institutions of Minnesota, nine of them in Minneapolis, are the recipients of New Year's gifts aggregating $230,000 from David D. Stewart of St. Albans, Me., who inherited the estate of the late Levi M. Stewart of Minneapolis, a pioneer who died here two years ago. There are no restrictions attached to the gifts.

Stewart's charities in the past year have reached $620,000, nearly half of the estate that was left him. He had given about $400,000 to churches, colleges and charitable institutions in Maine.

FIRST CLASS OFFICE IN SIGHT

Santa Ana Three Months More With Needed Increase of $316 Likely

DECEMBER GREATEST MONTH IN HISTORY

This Postal Year Will See Local Office's Receipts Go $40,000

Santa Ana's postoffice receipts for the year ending December 31, 1913, were within $316.43 of making it a first-class office. There is no occasion for feeling disappointed at this small failure, however, for the rating of postoffices is made from the receipts for the year ending March 31, and from the past ratio of increase there is apparently no question about overcoming this discrepancy of $316 during the next quarter, in which case Santa Ana will enter the list of first-class postoffices on July 1 next.

The month just closed was the most phenomenal in the history of the local office from all standpoints. The receipts of the office were $5499.43 as against $4428.79 for December, 1912, or an increase of $1070.64 for the month. In addition to the tremendous increase in outgoing mail which is indicated by these stamp sales, there was, of course, a correspondingly greater amount of incoming stuff. As high as 150 sacks of mail were received in a single day during the rush season, in addition to the letter pouches, the delivery of which required the services of three parcel post wagons all day besides temporary assistance from four additional wagons, all in addition to the nine regular letter carriers who were swamped every day with an avalanche of letters and postal cards. The parcel post matter was cleaned up every day, however, with the exception of matter insufficiently addressed, which was inevitably delayed until the address could be supplied.

A comparison of the receipts for the office for the years 1912 and 1913, are furnished by Postmaster Shaw, as follows:

Quarter Ending	1912	1913
March 31	$8,696.74	$9,596.25
June 30	8,240.82	8,596.66

Suppose This Man Had Been Your Employee? It Would Have Cost You $7,523.64

The Accident:

Grocery Store. In comes customer in a hurry. Goods wanted are on a top shelf. Clerk climbs a small stout ladder. Has climbed it a thousand times without an accident. This time he makes a mis-step. Falls. His back strikes the corner of a counter. Injury to spine and ribs broken. Rushed to a hospital. Will be a paralytic for life.

The Result:

If this accident should happen now, under the new Workmen's Compensation Law, the proprietor of this store would be liable.

FIRST, for all Doctor and Hospital bills, nursing, medicines, crutches or other appliances and supplies for 90 days. At a most conservative estimate this would be $ 225.00

SECOND, to pay 65 per cent of the clerk's salary for 240 weeks. If the clerk made $85 a month this would amount to the large sum of 3,060.72

THIRD, to pay 40 per cent of the clerk's salary for the remainder of his life. If he was 25 years old when injured, and lived to be only 40 years old, the additional indemnity the employer would have to pay him would be 4,237.92

This would impose on that small groceryman enough to put him out of business, for the accident would cost him the immense sum of $7,523.64

BUT

If the groceryman is insured in one of our Companies and any injury comes to an employee the Company assumes all obligation and pays the indemnities. You cannot afford, Mr. Employer, to be without protection. Consult us at once and we will tell you the amount of your premium. It is based on the size of your annual payroll and the character of your business according to its hazard. Our rates are the same as the State charges, and we're here on the ground to serve you well.

BETTY'S NEW YEAR'S PARTY

By MARJORIE HOPE
Copyright, 1913, by American Press Association.

BETTY was impatiently waiting for Jack to come home. He would love the hurt away and be sorry, too, and Jack's arms could make up for a good deal. They had not been married more than two years, and she was thinking—But, oh, there was

"Jack, I can't get my dress."

"Why not, sweetie?"

"They won't give me any more credit. Oh, I am so tired of this poverty. I want lots of money. I want my dress so much. I begged them so hard to let me have it. I—I-think it's so mean"—Choking back her sobs, she turned to Jack for comfort.

Jack pushed her away sharply.

"Sometimes I think you haven't any pride. But, if you have none for yourself, for heaven's sake have some for me."

"But aren't you sorry, Jack?" She looked wistfully into the angry face of her husband. She wanted to be loved.

"Of course I am sorry—sorry that you made such a fool of yourself! With which speech he left the house.

Late that night, returning, he sought Betty, penitent and ashamed of himself. She was in their sitting room reading. Going up to her, he knelt down and put his arms around her, but she sprang up, cold and angry. "Oh, when you are ready to be nice I am to forget that when I wanted you to be so you had made other arrangements for your disposition for the evening."

"I FORBID YOU TO LEAVE THE HOUSE TONIGHT."

"Betty, I am awfully sorry. I was a bad. But do be a good little girl and kiss and forgive."

"Of course I will forgive you, but I don't want to be kissed, thank you just the same. You should show more discretion in the distribution of your kisses. You are a trifle too—what do they call it in the streets?—'slushy,' you know, Jack. Good night."

"Just a minute, Elizabeth. Since you consider that I am too 'slushy' with you I will thank you to let me know the next time you wish any demonstration of affection on the part of your husband. In the meantime I will refrain from troubling you."

Consequently in the ensuing months, although they kept up a semblance of good feeling, they were cold and extravagantly indifferent on the surface to each other's affairs. Jack was always too busy to take Betty to the few entertainments which their little town afforded and to which she wanted to go, so she had been thrown on the society of a friend of her husband's, Don Monroe, which condition her husband silently resented.

On New Year's eve Betty remarked at dinner:

"The Williamses are having a midnight supper tonight to watch the old year—such as it has been—out. The invitations came by phone this afternoon, hours 11 to 2."

"I am sorry I cannot take you."

"Oh," she interrupted, "I have given up counting on you to do anything for me. Don is going to take me."

"Guess again, little girl of mine."

"What do you mean?" she cried, rising from the table. "Have you any particular objection to my having a good time? You certainly give that impression."

"I have a good many objections to your going out at midnight with a man who is not your husband, much as you might like him to be, and returning home in the early hours of the morning. You cannot go."

After reading two hours Betty placed a marker in her book and rose.

Jack looked up.

"Where are you going?"

"To get dressed for the supper."

Her husband sprang up, flushing angrily. "I tell you now are not going out with Monroe tonight. Can I put it any clearer?"

"And suppose I won't stay home?"

"I'll make you stay."

"How, pray?"

"Oh, if necessary, I am strong."

"I understand. I suppose you could beat me into submission if—"

"Oh, Betty, Betty!" he cried, covering his face in horror that she should so have misunderstood him. "Oh, girlie, how could you?"

At his cry all the long pentup love in Betty was momentarily released, and running up to him, she pulled his hands down.

"Betty is sorry she said that, Jack. She did not mean it. Please, please forgive her, will you?" But he did not kiss her, plead as her eyes did for the caress. This rebuff rather cooled her burst of affection, and she said, "But I am going just the same."

Her husband laughed softly and, stooping, picked her up in his arms and, walking back to his chair, sat down with his burden and resumed his reading, holding her the while just tight enough to prevent her escape.

"Here you will remain until after the hour for your meeting with Monroe. By the way, what time were you to meet him and where?"

"Eleven-thirty at the corner," she replied quietly. To tell the honest truth, Betty seemed to like this method of prevention. While she would not have given in to his commands, she did not object to being forced to do so.

Suddenly the book fell to the floor, and Jack's hand that had been holding it gently tilted Betty's face back, and he caught the tears and the tenderness. Biting his lips to keep back the longing to kiss away the tears, he tightened his hold on her and with his head thrown back and away from her was soon in the Land of Nod, all forgetful of New Year's eve suppers and "eleven-thirty at the corner."

About a quarter to 12 Betty stood in their pretty little dining room, putting the finishing touches to a dainty supper set for two. Quite satisfied that everything was in order, she turned toward the sitting room, to encounter a pale face and frightened eyes.

Slowly taking in the sight before him and also the time, 11:45, his face flushed. "Forgive me, Betty," holding out his arms, into which she came. "I had a few nasty suspicions when I woke up alone."

"I wanted to get back to you before you woke up, dear. We are going to have our own New Year's eve supper, but before we do I want!"

Gathering her close into his arms, Jack kissed her tenderly and hungrily.

"That was it, Jack. And now," catching his hand and drawing him into the dining room, "this will be so much than any old Williams affair!"

I Write Employers Liability Insurance in the Old Aetna Life Ins. Co., of Hartford

This reliable company has about $100,000,000.00 in assets back of every policy and is the largest and strongest company in the world writing accident life and life insurance.

Personally I know little about the working of the new law, nor does any other man, not even those that put it on the statute books. Time and the courts must decide this question, as they will also decide the new Auto License law.

I. J. Muma, general agent for the Aetna Insurance Co., of Los Angeles knows more about this law than most men, as he has spent all his business life in such work. My attorney here in Santa Ana is also well informed on such matters—the opinion of both are at your service.

MARVELOUS LONGEVITY

Man Marries at Age of 126 and
Dies When 132 Years Old

Rev. R. R. Raymond Well Acquainted With Author of Story

Rev. R. R. Raymond, proprietor of Raymond's Department Store in the Central Block, called the Register's attention to a marvelous story published in a recent number of the Pacific Methodist Advocate. Mr. Raymond knows the author of the story, James W. Lee, and says there can be no question as to his veracity.

Here is the story as it appeared in the Pacific Methodist Advocate:

A STORY WITHOUT A PARALLEL

(By James W. Lee)

About twenty-three years ago I was spending a day with a friend in McDonough, Ga., about twenty miles from Atlanta. Reference was made to an old man in the poorhouse of Henry county, two miles in the country, by the name of Hiram Lester, who was 126 years old. Being assured that there was not the slightest doubt about his age, I proposed a pilgrimage to the poorhouse to see the man. It occurred to me that a person born in 1764, just thirty-two years after Washington was born, and who had lived on the planet with Washington thirty-five years, and who had managed to live ninety-one years after Washington had passed to his long home, was an exceedingly interesting human fact.

Across the fields we walked to the group of cottages, which together make up the Henry County Poorhouse. We found Uncle Hiram Lester sitting under the shade of a tree. Had there been doubt of his age before, the sight of him would have removed the last vestige of it. His face was made up of a network of wrinkles that even Time could never have woven in a shorter period than 126 years. To stand in the presence of a man born in the first part of the reign of George III was sufficient to excite not only the admiration, but the awe and reverence of one endowed with even a slight degree of imagination. But the significance and wonder of the situation of which Uncle Hiram Lester was the center was multiplied by the remarkable fact that he had a son in the poorhouse with him 90 years old—that is, Uncle Hiram Lester's boy was born just one year after the death of Washington. Anyone can see that here was an opportunity for a rare interview.

"How have you managed to live so long?" said I to Uncle Hiram.

"I don't know," he replied.

"What do you eat?" said I.

"Meat and greens and bread," he responded.

"Do you ever drink any liquor?" was asked.

"Occasionally I take a dram," he said.

"Do you use tobacco?" was the question.

"I don't know," he replied.

ADVICE ON REGISTRATION

The Sacramento Bee is a paper that has no political alignment. To a greater extent than any other leading daily in the state it answers to the designation "independent." The paper, however, stands consistently for the cause of good government as its publishers see the issue, and all over the northern part of the state the Bee wields a tremendous influence. Its support has been given to Governor Johnson and his administration in a most cordial and emphatic manner and in the present political crisis in the state the Bee is outspoken in its advocacy of registration as Progressives. In a recent editorial, it states the issue with clearness and force and its arguments are strongly commended to the thoughtful consideration of the Progressive voters of Orange county:

Those who believe the present state administration has accomplished great good and lasting benefits for California and for the masses, and who favor a continuation of the present commendable method of doing public business through business-like methods—for the benefit of the public in general, and not for the greater glory and profit of the corporations—should register their affiliation with the Progressive party of California.

It is not necessary here to enumerate all the reforms the administration of Governor Hiram W. Johnson has written into state history and upon the statutes of California. They should be as familiar as household words.

Suffice it to say the people of the state owe an eternal debt of gratitude to the Johnson administration for the present railroad commission alone—a commission which has accomplished more for said people in any one month of its labors than was accomplished in all the 35 years covered by the terms of its predecessors.

And what is true of the board of railroad commissioners is true also of the board of control and of the various other boards and commissions which have made the Johnson administration the most memorable in California's history.

As for humanitarian legislation—the protection of the wage-earner, the elevation of womanhood, the safeguarding of girlhood, the dawn of a better day for all who labor and are weary-laden—the Johnson administration stands alone in the annals of California.

Such an administration must be continued.

It should be continued personally by the same vigorous hand to which the state today owes so much.

And those who are proud of the performance of the past and who place implicit trust in the promise for the future—should register as Progressives, alike to show the faith that is in them, and to add strength to the good cause in preparation for the coming battle."

THE NEW DANCES

Formerly one dancing school term seemed to equip a fellow with all the steps needed for a life time. Now in high society you might as well propose a contra dance to "Old Zip Coon," as the waltz and two-step.

Many of these new figures, a flood from the underworld, a flood of protest has followed the coarse way in which they have been done. Indianapolis and other cities appoint a matron to regulate dances, Cardinal Farley of New York and many other church dignitaries have banned them, and a battle of dancing masters and chaperones has arisen over their propriety.

In favor of the new forms it can be said that the old waltz and two-step had too much sameness, and too frequent repetition of the same figure. This eventually becomes tiresome to people who are fond of rhythmical motion. To some extent the new dances represent new, original and interesting forms. People who have the instincts of ladies and gentlemen can and do dance them correspondingly.

A certain rather novel kind of music has come in with these steps. Much of it has a very exhilarating animation, due to original syncopations (popularly ragtime) and larger use of the minor scale; all which adds to the zest of it.

People with rough and coarse minds do the old steps roughly and coarsely, as they are now dancing the tango. Probably parents of young people need to watch all forms of dancing more closely, particularly the new figures. A fellow who is disrespectful enough to womanhood to hold his partner immodestly should receive a sharp call Apparently some of the new forms of dancing may become permanent. But it is up to all who engage in them to see that they are done in a way suited to the home, the school, and the church, rather than the Red Light district.

INCREASING THE AVAILABILITY OF NITROGEN

The recent discoveries made by Professor Bottomley, of Kings College, London, of means or methods of increasing the activity of the nitrifying bacteria in the soil are of greater importance than perhaps appears at first glance. The importance of atmospheric nitrogen as a source of this most costly of the plant foods has long been appreciated, but its practical use has been limited; (1) to the inoculation of leguminous crops (peas, vetches, etc.), to increase the activity of the bacteria on the root nodules of these leguminous crops which have been frequently sown to plow under as "green" crops; (2) to the direct extraction of nitrogen from the atmosphere and the production of nitrate of lime (calcium nitrate) therfrom. A method which will increase the activity of the bacteria in any soil will then prove of the greatest value and possesses immense possibilities. The fact that estimates place the amount of atmospheric nitrogen above every acre of land at 75,000,000 pounds shows the importance of any method of making use of such amounts as may be necessary and sufficient for plant use. A carload of oranges, more than an average production from an acre of orange trees, contains between fifty and sixty pounds of nitrogen, a quantity truly insignificant in face of the vast amount capable of being drawn upon. It certainly seems well within the range of possibilities for science to enable this amount eventually to be drawn from the atmosphere in space readily available for plant growth.

The discovery of a medium which when saturated with the nitrogen-fixing organisms, and added to ordinary soil brings about nitrogen-fixation in a remarkable manner" means much, not only as a direct method of "nitrogen fixation" in the soil in an available form, but as also demonstrating possibilities hard to realize.

Wide, practical experiments along the lines of Professor Bottomley's discoveries will be looked for and watched with keen interest by all agriculturists, not the least interested among whom will be the keen and wide-awake citrus fruit growers of California.

TOLD OLD YEAR GOODBYE

Watched the New Year in and Withal Had a Merry Time at the Irvine Ranch

Nowhere was the old year more merrily ushered out and the new year welcomed in than at the hospitable ranch house of James Irvine, where one hundred guests were entertained on Wednesday night. The guests hailed principally from Tustin and Santa Ana, but there were friends from Los Angeles and Pasadena, and all were royally entertained.

Mr. Irvine gave the company something far out of the ordinary social routine, beginning it by calling his entertainment a watch party. And such a jolly watch party it was!

There were fifteen tables of players in the diversions offered, which were of all sorts and varieties. At one table there was poetry making, at another there was the blowing of feathers, at still another perfect quiet was ordered, while again there was one table where incessant noise was the program. And so players progressed from one table to another and the hours went on in merriment unique. Finally the tables were cleared, after beautiful prizes for the various stunts had been won, and delicious refreshments were served. Before the hour of midnight arrived, the guests were furnished with horns and whistles, tin pans, and innumerable things that were noise-making, and as 1913 departed and 1914 came tripping into the scene of action, a perfect babel of sound arose from the horns and whistles and all of the conglomeration of din-producing instruments provided for the occasion.

Then when the old year was really gone and the new one here, the company resumed the merry-making interrupted by the ceremony of hail and farewell. Then the real joy came—for the spectators. There were potato races, the old fashioned game of consequences and similar sports in which activity was a prime factor. The gayety was kept up unflaggingly until 4 o'clock, when the guests, a trifle weary, but still reluctant to depart, wished the host all the good things that 1914 might hold in store for mortals, then voiced their "good mornings," for it was somewhat too early for "good nights." And long will they remember the passing of 1913 and the advent of the budding year of 1914 as celebrated at the Irvine ranch.

MURRAY-LACY WEDDING EVOKE GOOD WISHES

The opening of the new year at the city hall is marked by an event of more than usual interest, and while it has been known for some weeks that a certain event was scheduled to take place shortly, the time was a matter of doubt among all but a very few. The event has occurred, and Miss Laura L. Lacy, secretary of the Santa Ana water department, is the bride of James W. Murray, a popular and efficient member of the Santa Ana police department.

The wedding occurred at Los Angeles, Riverside, San Bernardino or some other place as a part of the surprise upon their friends. The couple returned today to receive the congratulations of hosts of friends. The bride is one of Santa Ana's best loved daughters. She is a member of one of the country's most prominent families. Her father, Dr. J. M. Lacy, was a pioneer physician of this city. Not only is she well known for her family's sake but she is most highly esteemed for her own. Courageous and cheerful under trials and sunny and kind at all times, she is close to the hearts of scores of people in Santa Ana and Orange county. To both Mr. and Mrs. Murray will be given heartfelt good wishes for the happiest of futures.

THE MICHIGAN PICNIC

Regular Mid-Winter Affair to Be Held on January 10 at Birch Park

The regular mid-winter picnic of the Santa Ana Michigan Society will be held Saturday, January 10, at Birch Park.

The officers of the association have been preparing a program, and it is thought that the picnic on the date mentioned will be as well attended and interesting as any of the preceding ones.

There has been a Michigan Society organized at Orange, and the Santa Ana society will invite the baby organization to meet with them on the day they have their picnic, and formulate plans for a central society so that all in the county may have an opportunity of meeting with old friends, and enjoying themselves with native born and former residents of the Wolverine State.

Basket lunches will be the order of the day, and it is expected that each one bringing a lunch will provide for at least one more than their own party, so as to be able to offer their hospitality to some who will be unprepared with lunch, as there are a good many who board.

Relief Corps Meeting

With the "Greetings of the Season," the W. R. C. met in the G. A. R. hall for their usual business meeting. Mrs. Catherine Fischer occupying for the last time the president's chair, which she has so ably filled during the past year. The treasurer, Mrs. Pendleton, whose pleasant face was always seen at her post, will also be missed in the future.

Many calls and sending of bouquets were reported as being made during the holidays. The following officers were appointed for the coming term:

Secretary, Mrs. Julia Garrison, assistant conductress, Mary Moore; assistant guard, Emma Lieser; patriotic instructor, Carrie E. musician, Grace Moesser; press correspondent, Ida Deck; first color bearer, Ida Deck; second color bearer, Viola Flipp; third color bearer, Agnes Colver; fourth color bearer, Lizzie Marsile.

A joint installation with Sedgwick Post will take place on January 14 at 2 o'clock at G. A. R. hall. All new officers are requested to meet at the G. A. R. hall on Friday, January 9, for rehearsal.

New members whose names have not been previously mentioned are Mesdames Augusta Davis, Emma Chapman, Clara Huff and Mary Myrick. Mesdames Catherine Fischer and Ida Deck have been appointed as national aides to the national president.

Those present besides the two hostesses of the evening were, Nettie Smith, Johanna Veeneschoten, Nellie Nelson, Edna Masters, Doolittle, Besie Winters, Cora Winters, Lorraine French, Cora Craig, Marie Drake, Virginia Johnston, Frances Johnston; Mrs. Van Doren, Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Abbott Shaw, Mrs. Zoe Williams, Mrs. Krause.

SEPARATISTS
EAGER AFTER
THE PROXIESFight Over Division of Oil and Water Interests Proves
Hot One

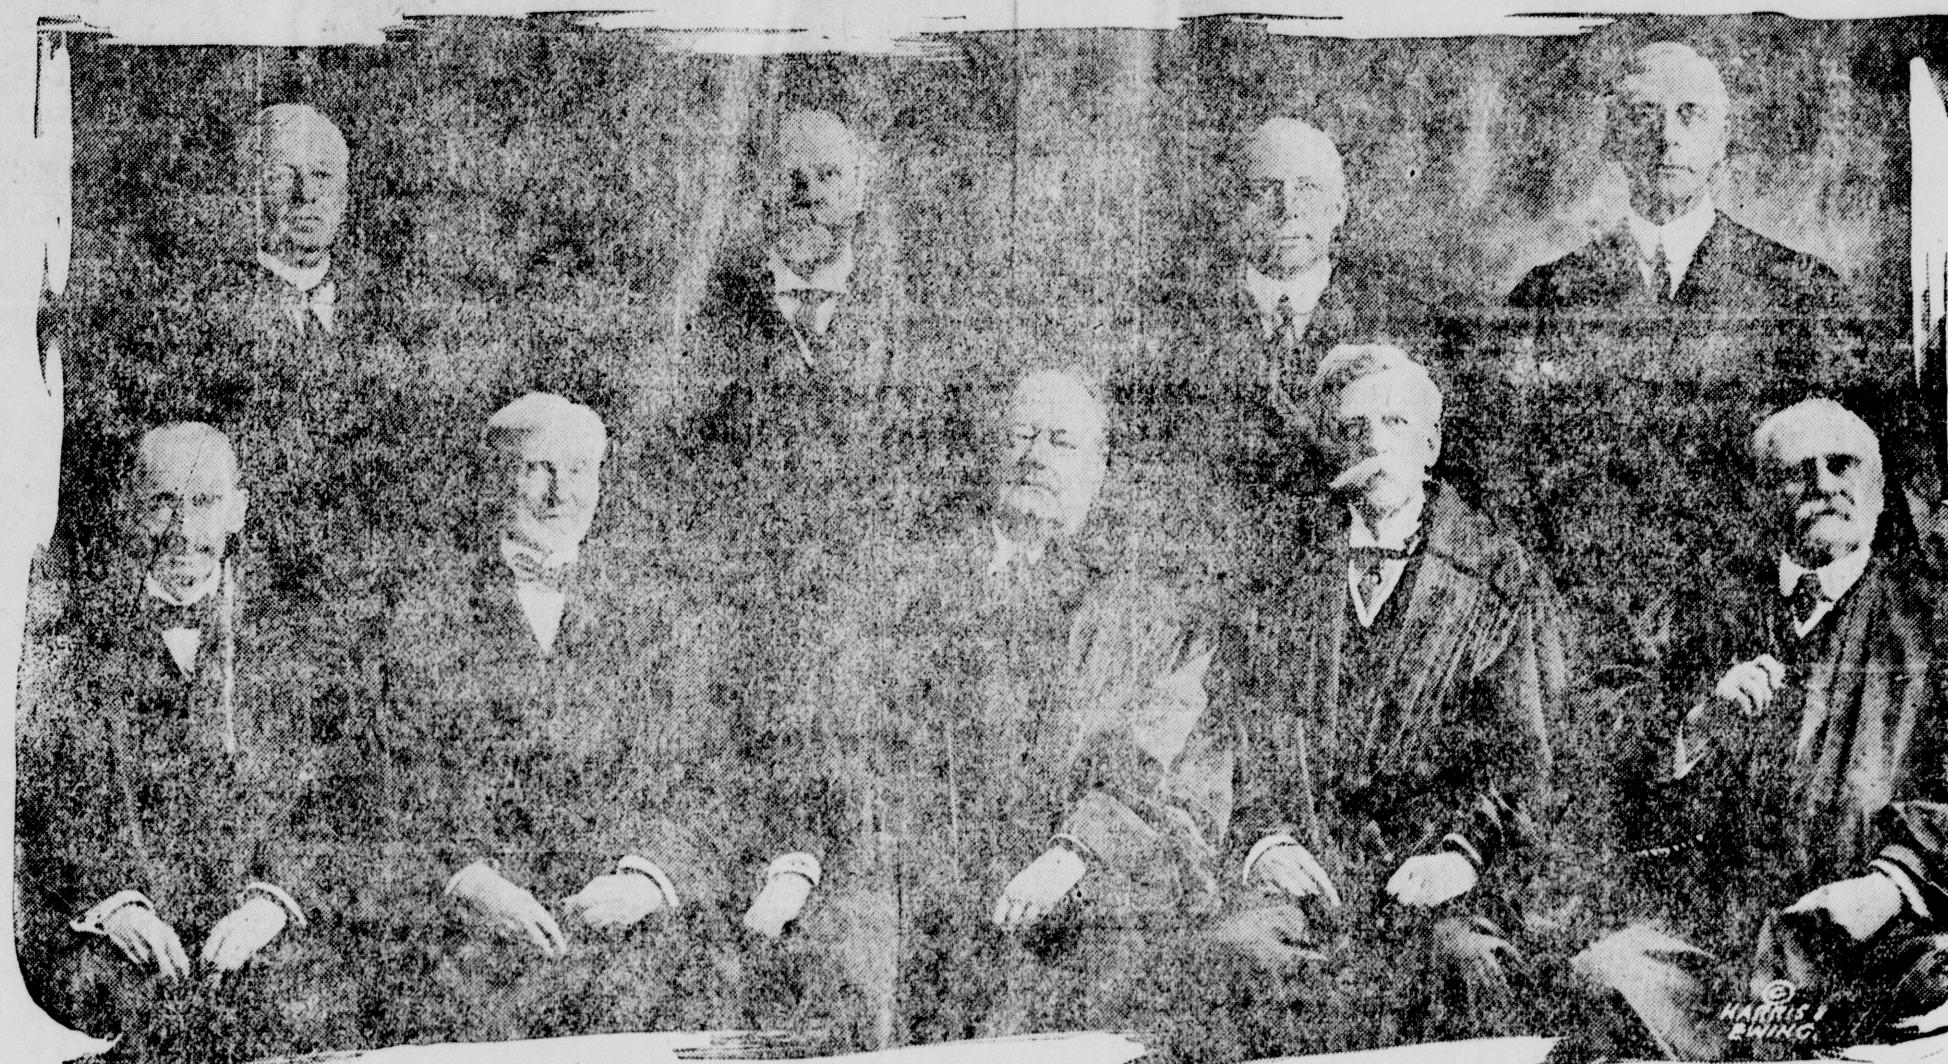

Anaheim Gazette: Stockholders in the Anaheim Union Water Company who favor segregation of oil and water are eager in quest of proxies to be voted at the annual meeting January 31. They have held several meetings at which resolutions were adopted favoring segregation, and a committee has been appointed with a view to obtaining as many proxies as possible. An especial effort is making to obtain proxies from non-resident shareholders, and it is said a larger representation of stock will be voted at the annual meeting in favor of segregation than has yet been voted for that project. At two previous annual meetings segregation was defeated decisively. The vote against Mr. Chapman's motion a year ago for appointment of committee to investigate feasibility of segregation was defeated overwhelmingly. Mr. Chapman was a year ago a candidate for election on the board of directors, but owing to the inroads made upon stock supporting him was compelled to retire. He threw his large block of stock to support of G. W. Sherwood, who is the only one of the seven directors who favors separation of stock. The other members of the board are resolutely opposed to segregation, and fought the proposition successfully at the two last annual meetings. While these members of the board have not as yet obtained any proxies for the meeting, they will rely upon the presence of a large representation of shareholders for defeat of segregation, which they have no hesitation in declaring would be inimical to the best interests of the company. They hold further that the large outstanding bonded indebtedness of the company will render it legally impossible to segregate stock, and also declare that a two-thirds vote in favor of the project cannot be polled.

Separatists are asking for proxies from stockholders upon the proposition for appointment of a committee to investigate the feasibility of segregation, and to report their findings to the board. While this proposition seems to be harmless enough, members of the present board point out that a proxy thus given may be voted upon any question supported by separatists, including selection of a new board of directors. Among some of the separatists the statement is freely made that it is their aim to elect a majority of the new directorate. They also declare themselves in favor of issuing the four thousand shares of treasury stock, and placing it upon the market at a price of $50 per share. The present price of stock is $25, and many irrigators throughout the district declare that the proposed price of $50 is absolutely ruinous to their interests. They maintain that even should segregation be brought about the price of water stock should not be less than $100, and others maintain that $150 per share is not too high. They point out that water is a life-giving element to horticultural operations in the valley, and that land with water stock which is now held at $2,000 per acre would fall to a mere segment of this figure if water stock were removed from it. They hold that, even though production of more than one million dollars of oil in the La Habra reservoir during the past two years has inflated the price of their shares, water is more important to them than oil, for without irrigation the magnificent orchards which are the foundation for the valley's prosperity, would be made an impossibility.

They also hold that the issuance of four thousand shares of treasury stock would tend to materially decrease their supply of water now being run on the eight thousand shares of stock held by irrigators. During the summer months of water shortage runs are limited to half an hour per share. If these four thousand shares are placed upon the market and sold they maintain the time limit must necessarily be greatly shortened.

The company has received in royalties from the Amalgamated company more than $150,000 in two years. This money has been advantageously invested for the benefit of irrigators, and has not been squandered as some of the separatists assert. New pumping plants have been installed, largely increasing the supply of water, and new pipe lines have replaced open earthen ditches, which add greatly to conserving moisture during the irrigating season. One of these pipe lines brings water into this city from the Yorba reservoir, a distance of eight miles, replacing a long stretch of earthen ditch which had been in use for more than half a century. The pipe line is not yet completed the entire distance from the reservoir hither, but the intervening section will probably be piped the present year.

Mr. Chapman, who is the largest stockholder in the company, and the leader of the separatists, has acquired a new tract of 390 acres on the Kramer ranch upon which he has water stock to the extent of 93 shares. He would probably, if segregation were brought about, purchase 300 or 400 shares of the treasury stock which he seeks to issue at $50 per share. Other

New Law at Reno, Nev., Makes
essary

RENO, Nev., Jan. 2.—As a divorce center Reno went into the bus-been class yesterday, when the new divorce law requiring a year's residence before application can be made for divorce went into effect. It is now just as hard in Nevada to shuffle off the bonds of matrimony as in any other state. The divorcees who are already here going through the process of separating themselves from their wives or husbands, will be permitted to finish their task, but thereafter none others but genuine, one-year-resident residents need apply.

Reno's reputation as a divorce colony was made by the rush which followed the passage of an easy divorce law. Acresces, society women and others flocked here in droves.

Prominent among them was Mrs. Margaret Emerson McKim, daughter of Isaac Emerson, the "Bromo-Seltzer king," who married Alfred G. Vanderbilt after her divorce from Scott Holton. Virginia Harned secured her divorce from E. H. Sohren here. Edna Goodrich came here to get a divorce and immediately afterward married Nat Goodwin whom she has since divorced. Others who were divorced here were:

Mrs. Florence Jenkins, of Baltimore; Mrs. Henry Hutt, wife of the artist; William E. Corey, who afterward married Mabelle Gilman; Philip Dodge, president of the Mengerthal Linotype Company; and R. M. Rudington, known as "the father of the divorce colony."

The South Fullerton Oil Company, which is operating near El Toro, has its well down 4200 feet, and is now arranging to put it on the pump in about three weeks. There is a great deal of water in the well, but it is believed the company will get 100 barrels or more of oil per day when the water is pumped out. The well cost $65,000. It is said another well will be drilled at once if enough of fuel oil is found in well No. 1 to supply the boilers for drilling well No. 2.

O'Neal & Welch, South Dakota bankers, associated with residents of Los Angeles, have taken a long lease on the McComber ranch, near Northwood station, and will drill at once for oil. The well is not far from the famous Emery gushers.

FULLERTON IS COLLEGE TOWN

The Additional Courses Given in High School Are Making Good

FULLERTON, Jan. 2—Fullerton as a college town is making a decided success, according to information on the Junior College given out by Principal Delbert Brunton. Throop School of Technology of Pasadena, through Prof. Shearer, has agreed to accept credit in enrolling Fullerton Junior College students, and it is said the University of California will do the same.

Throop ranks with the strictest schools in the country in the severity of its admission requirements, and since it was influenced in its decision by the attitude of the State University, there is little doubt but that Fullerton college men can soon enter any institution of higher education on the coast with full credit.

"This recognition places the Junior College on the highest plane," said Prof. Brunton. "It does not mean that we are accepted without qualifications, but it does mean that the biggest educators in the country are satisfied with the course we are offering. Whether this recognition will be extended to us without reservations depends upon the success of our graduates who enter the institutions. If the men and women we turn out make a success the fullest credit will then be awarded Fullerton. It is strictly up to us, to use our slang expression.

"There are now twenty-eight students enrolled in the Junior College. One or two of these may enter higher institutions next year, but the greater majority will complete the two years. At that time they will be entered as juniors."

"The largest number are enrolled in the schools of English. History ranks next in size.

Pioneer Dies

The death of Mrs. P. Pfenninger, aged 72 years, occurred Wednesday. Mrs. Pfenninger has been a well known and highly esteemed resident of Fullerton for over twenty-five years. She was born in Germany, her parents coming to America when she was only two years of age. Descension is survived by four children, John H., Emma C., and George C. Pfenninger of Fullerton, and Miss Lella Pfenninger of Los Angeles. The remains were cremated in Los Angeles in accordance with Mrs. Pfenninger's wishes.

Free Mail Delivery

Pestmaster Edwards states that he has been informed by the department at Washington that Fullerton will have free city delivery within two months. He also says the postoffice room is to be remodeled so that there will be much more room for the handling of mail. The entire front of the room will be removed. The business of the postoffice has been gaining rapidly during the past five or six years.

News Briefs

L. R. America has returned from a six months' visit in the East. He came direct from Florida and says that state has a big orange crop this year and that the fruit is in good condition.

Ana Gained Population
in 1913

ANAHEIM, Jan. 2—Postmaster Duckworth announced at the close of the office last evening that the postal receipts had been 20 per cent greater during 1913 than those of the previous year. The increase in December alone was 25 per cent heavier than in December of last year. Mr. Duckworth is considering the establishment of two more rural routes for the accommodation of persons living beyond the range of accommodation by the city deliveries.

TWENTY PER CENT
GAIN DURING 1913LA HABRA IS GOING TO SECURE A BANK

Twenty new houses were started in Santa Ana during the month of December, and H. D. Meyer concluded to add to his new concrete building at Third and Spurgeon another story to be devoted to apartments. These are as good evidences of steady growth as any one could ask. Throughout the whole of 1913 Santa Ana moved steadily ahead, typifying the development of the city, which is not a boom city in any sense of the use of that word to designate a phase of mushroom growth.

In population Santa Ana undoubtedly made a substantial advance in the last year. When new houses are constantly being erected and rentable houses are scarce, there is but one conclusion to be drawn.

During December the principal permits issued were as follows:

To Fred Franke, frame dwelling at 904 Stanford; $325.

To W. A. Venn, store building at 544 East Washington; $600.

To L. M. Ballard, bungalow at 2038 Hickey; $1,000.

To F. W. Kellogg, 6-room house at 802 South Broadway; $2,000, with G. L. Smith contractor.

To Otto Pantz, 5-room house at 825 Garnsey; $1,700.

To Fred Keller, 5-room house at 1121 Logan; $1,000, with J. P. Stevens contractor.

To R. H. Liggett, 5-room house at 708 West Fourth; $1,250, with W. T. Mitchell contractor.

To same, at 706 West Fourth; $1,250.

Raise to $1000

Garden Grove News: The Washington dispatches got the facts about the Garden Grove postoffice somewhat confused. When Postmaster Junkin received the official and formal notice from the postoffice department, the error appeared. Instead of a salary of $1,000 it is only $1,000. And instead of having an additional appropriation with which to pay an assistant the postmaster must dip into his own pocket. When it is all figured out and understood the only difference between the new and the old arrangement is that the department will pay rent and lights for in the change to a salary the amount is based upon the stamp cancellations.

THE BUILDING PERMITS
ALONE ARE $704,009

Santa Ana May Well Be Proud of Her
Advancement During the Past Year
And 1914 Will Be Better

The total of building permits issued in Santa Ana in 1912 was $611,536.

The total of building permits issued in Santa Ana in 1913 was $704,009.

In other lines of advancement Santa Ana made splendid progress in 1913. Among the most notable improvements of the year is the paving of several streets. By their streets you may know cities. Santa Ana is building good streets.

Judged from any standpoint in five-story Class A, steel-frame building, the year 1913 was a remarkable year in Santa Ana's upbuilding. It was remarkable not only for what was done but for what has been planned for 1914. It is well enough to point out that the total permits for 1913 exceeded 1912 by $100,000, but it is also gratifying to know that Santa Ana in 1914 is going to witness the beginning of the construction of two big business blocks, bigger and higher than anything yet built in the business section of this city.

Plans are already made for vacating the Spurgeon Ready Co. building at the southwest corner of Fourth and Sycamore streets, that a fine four-story brick building may take the place of the pioneer big brick block of the city. The Spurgeon Ready Co. contributed a good deal to the progress of 1913 by building the fine two-story brick building at the corner of Third and Sycamore streets, north of the Register building, also to be counted as one of the good things that 1913 has brought to this county seat.

Probably within ninety days the Farmers & Merchants National Bank will be at work upon its proposed the establishment of a factory for the purpose of manufacturing auto trucks. A committee was appointed by the board to visit the company's offices in Los Angeles, examine the books and take an inventory of the property and contracts. Messrs. A. A. Mills, Herman Noll and Louis Bushard were named.

The company wants a site of three acres, and the old Dreyfus winery building has been suggested. After examining the premises, Messrs. McFadden and Brizzolari stated, although a more substantial structure than was absolutely necessary, it was suitable, inasmuch as it could be either leased or purchased with the three acres of ground needed.

ANAHEIM, Jan. 2.—A special meeting of the Board of Trade was held to consider a proposition presented by William Brizzolari, Thomas McFadden and S. V. Janes, relative to the building of a one-story frame bungalow on West Chapman avenue. The building is 30x54 feet, and contains six fine rooms of more than the average size. There are many built-in features, including an elegant buffer, two bookcases, an arch, fireplace with mantle, and many other necessary conveniences which are usually included in the general plan of a modern cottage. We are informed John S. Newton has the contract.

H. M. Elliott has let a contract for building a six-room cottage to L. C. Gates. The location of the house is on North Orange street. Mr. Gates has the building enclosed and plastered, and is otherwise pushing the work along in a satisfactory way.

Some weeks ago W. F. Eden took a contract to build a one-story house at Villa Park for Mr. Ralph H. Sussdorff on his ranch, formerly the Stanley place. This building is of the prevailing bungalow type and is 45x77 feet in dimensions, with a timber frame 16x18 feet on the rear west side. The building is of frame construction on a cobble stone foundation; a wide, round, corner porch, also with stone ANAHEIM, Jan. 2.—Mrs. Cellier Dyer, wife of Herbert Dyer, used of wronging his 13-year-old daughter, Hester Butler, followed the example of Dyer and disappeared sometime Tuesday. Before going she promised to secure Frank child and W. B. Webb, the bondsmen, who forfeited $5000 because of Dyer's failure to appear at his preliminary hearing.

At the Santa Fe station it was learned that Mrs. Dyer had bought a ticket to Los Angeles, and her trunk is tagged to that place. By paying the tag, however, it was learned at Alberta, B. C., was her destination. Every effort will be made to bring them back, as it is believed that she means to join Dyer at that place.

A Potpourri of News and Views

From the Los Angeles Financial News

Developing Trade Abroad

Plans outlined for developing trade of the United States abroad are detailed in the report of the Department of Commerce. These plans are of great moment to the country. The Secretary of the Department, in the carrying out of the plans, would reorganize his department. Here is what he says:

"Briefly stated, the proposed organization provides for commercial attaches to be located at each of fourteen capitals, accredited to our embassies there by the Department of State, but reporting directly to the Department of Commerce. Their purpose will be to study the commerce and industries of the nations where they reside. They will have no other duties. They will collaborate with the Consuls, having the advantage of the larger view and of the freedom from other cares.

"It is recommended that the Consuls shall on purely commercial matters report directly to the Department of Commerce and that they shall co-operate with the commercial attaches in presenting between them a complete and unified knowledge of the commerce and industries of our great competitors. These two forces should normally supplement each other—the attaché has the general field, the Consul the particular field. The one collects, the other co-ordinates. Each supplies with the other that which without him we could not have. Each is at once a corrective and an incentive to the other.

"It is intended to enlarge the force of commercial agents which is composed of special investigators, trained in their separate lines of study, each pursuing some special theme, and for that purpose traveling from country to country wherever information on that subject can be had. For this purpose a special appropriation of $100,000 is asked for the study of commercial conditions in South America.

"Possibly I may have erred in not asking a more adequate provision for this great work. Certainly it is not consistent with our national self-respect to ask for less. It should be noted, finally, that now is the appointed time. We have spent several hundred millions preparing the Panama Canal and the nations of the world have been getting ready for its use, while we have done almost nothing actively to promote the commerce which should repay the nation, in part at least, for this vast outlay.

Oil Shipments in November

Shipments of refined and fuel oils from San Francisco customs district during the month of November were somewhat smaller than in October. The shipments in October reached the highest mark in the history of the California oil export trade, aggregating 47,287,962 gallons, valued at $1,211,362. The total value of last month's exports was considerably below the million-dollar mark. Last month's shipments were as follows:

Refined to—	Gallons.	Value.
China	5,650,000	$254,250
Japan	861,183	37,780
Total refined	6,511,183	$293,030
 Fuel to—
British Columbia	10,483,704	$195,509
Chile	5,634,846	86,843
Hawaiian Islands	3,000,942	68,422
Peru	2,150,288	43,850
Anton	1,630,600	36,000
Alaska	882,000	17,220
 Total fuel	24,743,420	$431,924
Add refined	6,511,183	253,030
 Grand totals	31,255,603	$724,954
November, 1912	24,349,309	674,005
 Includes 16,238,000 refined oil and 14,111,800 gallons fuel.	6,905,403	$50,949

In November, 1911, the total shipments were 19,10, 262,378 gallons, against 10,546,880 gallons in 1910, the latter being all fuel.

Violations Service Law of Railways

"Violations of the law limiting the service of train employees on American railways to sixteen consecutive hours go to the very heart of the efficiency and safety of train operation," said Commissioner Charles C. McChord, commenting upon a statement issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission, analyzing the monthly reports of interstate railroads on hours of service during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1913. Nearly 300,000 violations of the sixteen-hour law are reported by 269 railroads which employed 251,111 men in handling trains during the year, the road submitting various reasons why such violations were necessary.

The law requires that telegraph operators employed by railroads in train operations, shall not be on duty in excess of nine consecutive hours. The total number of violations of this law as shown by the analysis, was 26,588, while it is noted that in 4544 instances telegraph operators in offices operated only in daytime, were on duty for longer periods than 12 hours.

Up to November 1, 1913, the total penalties collected from the railroads because of violations of this law amounted to $156,562.14, of which $14,500 has been assessed because of failure of the carriers to report specific instances of excess service.

As to Corporation Tax

The Supreme Court of the United States refused the government's request to review the decision of the Circuit Court at Philadelphia that the corporation tax was not collectible from "dividends" of mutual insurance companies, consisting of premiums returned or otherwise invested at the option of the policyholder. As a result the government will be required to refund about $1,500,000 already collected and to forego any such collections under the present income tax law.

The power of a State to tax net receipts of life insurance companies in each county was upheld by the Supreme Court, in a case where the New York Life Insurance Company resisted the collection of a tax by Deer Lodge County, Montana. The company contended vainly that the action of the State was an interference with interstate commerce. Justices Hughes and Vandevanter dissented.

Automobiles in California

Since the registration department for automobiles in California was established there had been registered up to the 1st inst., 128,276 autos, of which 31,272 were registered this year. Population considered, California leads the world in ownership of automobiles. It is fourth in rank in number of trucks owned for commercial purposes, the order being: New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, California.

A change in the directorate of the Glendale Savings bank has been made by the addition of George T. Paine. The officers and directors are: Ed M. Lee, president; W. W. Lee and E. U. Emery, vice-presidents; M. P. Harrison, secretary; C. D. Lusby, cashier; David Francy, T. J. Hutchinson, W. S. Perrin and George T. Paine, directors.

Hawaiian Sugar Crop

The Hawaiian sugar crop this year was 546,798 tons, the smallest crop for the past three years. The season for the sugar crop in the islands begins October 1 and ends September 30. The annual meeting of the planters is held in Honolulu. At the recent annual session figures were presented which give the sugar crop for several years past. From these figures it is learned that the total crop in 1907 was 440,017 tons; in 1908 it was 521,123 tons; in 1909 it was 535,156 tons; in 1910, 517,000 tons. For the years 1911, 1912 and 1913 the crop figures in detail follow:

Los Angeles County Highways

During the first nine months of the current year Los Angeles County completed 34 miles of rock and oil highways at a cost to the county of $105,365.83, the total cost being $315,000. The cost of construction per mile varied from $1,892.78 to $5,949.94. It prohibits a uniform price from being fixed by manufacturers and jobbers, binding upon retailers, as to articles of their manufacture.

It remains to state but one further point of important policy that the department desires to carry out. It wishes to supplement the inquiry now being made into the cost of production in the pottery industry by undertaking an inquiry into the cost of production of clothing of all kinds and of different materials, including hoseery, knit goods, and their fellows. It is recalled that not only is this a matter which affects every man and woman in the country, but that it is a subject which has been approached several times, but which has never received thoughtful study as a whole. The late tariff board inquired into the cost of cotton and woolen and worsted cloth, and to some extent into the costs of making knit goods and hoseery. It did not, however, pursue its inquiries fully into the cost of making all clothing of various kinds. Different States and municipalities have given study to the important question of wages and labor in clothing industries and to the working conditions in them. No one, to my knowledge, has ever correlated the work of the various public and private organizations—national, State and municipal—and has added to them an inquiry into the fundamental elements of cost in these industries. Such a study should have important social results. It should develop the question as to whether the sweatshop is economically efficient or whether, by a properly organized and more scientific method of manufacture it would not be eliminated by the natural operation of economic law."

The power of a State to tax net receipts of life insurance companies in each county was upheld by the Supreme Court, in a case where the New York Life Insurance Company resisted the collection of a tax by Deer Lodge County, Montana. The company contended vainly that the action of the State was an interference with interstate commerce. Justices Hughes and Vandevanter dissented.

New Home for Citizens National

The Citizens' National Bank of Los Angeles which, for a number of years, has occupied quarters on the southwest corner of Main and Third streets, is to have a new home. It will be in a million-dollar structure, 12 stories in height, to be erected on the northwest corner of Spring and Fifth streets, to be known as the Citizens' National Bank building. Directors of the bank have signed a 20-year lease for the entire first floor and basement of the new building. Construction will start as soon as leases on the property expire, and the building will be completed early in 1915.

Will Head New York Central

A. H. Smith, senior vice president of the New York Central lines, who began as a messenger boy in the company's service, has been elected president of the system, succeeding W. C. Brown, who retires.

COUNT IS VICTIM OF EXPERIMENT

He Took Suspended Animation Culture to Prove Theory of Recalling Life

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Jan. 2.—A telegram was received yesterday by Mayor Edward Griffin from Dr. T. F. Dailey of Elizabethtown, Ky., announcing the death of Count Auguste Castellane Seymour on Wednesday as a result of a self-administered injection of suspended animation culture to prove the theory that life can be suspended and called back at will.

The message stated that the count's last request was that he be buried near Tom Paine in New Rochelle. Henry M. Lester, president of the Huguenot Association, which owns the old Tom Paine house, stated that Paine's body is not in New Rochelle, but was stolen from its grave here more than 100 years ago and taken to England.

Count Seymour left New Rochelle last fall to ride horseback to San Francisco, preaching a new religion of his own invention in larger cities on the way.
